ABSTRACT

This document determines the location and number of freshmen and transfer student vacancies for the fall term 1974 in Alaska, Arizona, California, Colorado, Hawaii, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Washington, and Wyoming. In the survey, 447 institutions were polled; of this number 229 schools responded. Responding institutions reported 141,669 openings, in terms of actual numerical estimates. Colleges and universities are listed alphabetically by state and are divided into 2- and 4-year categories within each state. Within each of these divisions, vacancies are specified for commuter and dormitory students. Additional information, if any, is provided following each institutional entry. (Author/MJM)

THE COLLEGE VACANCY SURVEY

Each May the office of Special Higher Education Programs at WICHE conducts the College Vacancy Survey among institutions of postsecondary education in the 13 western states.* WICHE polls the offices of Admissions and Records in order to determine the location and number of freshmen and transfer student vacancies for the following fall term.

The Survey is designed to provide a service to the public as well as to the Institutions. By compiling, publishing, and distributing the information received from the schools during the poll, WICHE enables students and would-be-students seeking admission to locate and apply to institutions still having vacancies. Similarly, institutions are able to receive applicants in order to fill otherwise empty spaces in their student bodies.

In the current survey, 447 institutions were polled; of this number, 229 schools responded (51.2%). Responding institutions reported 141,669 openings, in terms of actual numerical estimates. Please remember that this final total, as well as the totals given for individual states will represent minimum openings only. The trend toward "open admissions" policies is increasing among western colleges and universities. We were able to assign numerical estimates toward arriving at state vacancy totals only when they were given by the institutions. But most open admissions policies did not allow for numerical estimates, hence state totals are minimums.

GUIDELINES FOR USING THE SURVEY

Please read the following information to facilitate your use of the Survey.

1. Categories: Colleges and universities are listed alphabetically by state and are divided into two- and four-year categories within each state. Vacancies are reported for both freshmen and transfer students. Within each of these divisions, vacancies are specified for commuter and dormitory students. Additional information, if any, is provided following each institutional entry.

*WICHE states include Alaska, Arizona, California, Colorado, Hawaii, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Washington, and Wyoming.

The definition of "open admissions" may vary slightly among institutions. It does, however, most often refer to policies that expand access in education, allowing anyone with a high school diploma or its equivalent to be admitted to the institution. (Yung-mei Tsai and Paul Wing, September, 1972).

2. Making Application for Admission: Persons wishing to make application to an institution listed in this Survey report are required to follow regular admission procedures for that institution. These persons should make contact directly with Admissions offices at the institutions of their choice. Institutions will, in turn, make decisions about admitting students on the basis of regular admissions criteria. Prospective students are reminded that they should not reapply to any institution that has already denied them admission.

THE GRADUATE SCHOOL VACANCY SURVEY

This year, the Office of Special Higher Education Programs at WICHE conducted a survey of vacancies in graduate and professional schools and departments. WICHE polled the graduate and professional school deans in the thirteen western states* to determine the location and number of graduate vacancies at the master's and doctoral levels for the fall 1974 term.

The Survey is designed to provide a service to the public as well as to the institutions. It enables students and would-be-students to locate and apply to institutions still having vacancies. Similarly, institutions may receive applicants to fill vacancies in their student bodies.

In the current survey, 135 graduate schools were polled; of these, 28 responded (20.7%). Responding departments reported total vacancies of 5474. This total, as well as the totals given for discipline categories, represents minimum openings only. Many graduate departments reported "no limit set" for enrollment.

GUIDELINES FOR USING THE SURVEY

The following information will facilitate use of the Survey:

1. Organization: Graduate departments are organized under the HEGIS discipline categories (established by the U.S. Office of Education, Higher Education General Information Survey - see p. 31). Within each category, departments are subdivided by discipline and further subdivided alphabetically by state and institution name. Vacancies are specified for master's level (M) and doctoral level (D) students. Each graduate department requiring Graduate Record Examination (GRE) scores is noted with minimum acceptable scores, if any. Similarly, other examinations or entrance requirements are noted. A glossary of frequently used standardized test abbreviations follows. Graduate departments were requested to report if research or teaching assistantships were available; many reported the possibilities for, rather than the availability of, financial aid for fall 1974.

2. Making Application for Admission: Persons wishing to make application to an institution listed in this Survey report must follow regular admission procedures for that institution. They should directly contact Admissions offices at the institutions of their choice. Institutions, in turn, will make decisions about admitting students on the basis of regular admissions criteria. Prospective students are reminded that they should not reapply to any institution that already has denied them admission.
